

WE NOMINATE

Hans Rosenhaupt, one of this nation's most able and far-seeing educational administrators, who this fall is entering upon his third year as National Director of the Princeton-based Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation, which annually awards some 1,200 graduate fellowships to prospective college teachers in the arts and sciences. At a time when it is becoming increasingly apparent that the present danger in American higher education is a shortage of qualified faculty in all fields, the 49-year old Rosenhaupt and his associates are carrying forward a modern-day crusade in seeking out high-level manpower for the profession of teaching and scholarship.

Armed with a $24,500,000 grant from the Ford Foundation, the Wilson Fellowship Program, headquartered at 32 Nassau Street, grew out of a Princeton idea nurtured in 1945 by classicist Whitney Jennings (Mike) Oates and honoring the memory of a great president of the United States and Princeton. Back from World War II, ex-Marine Oates sensed the impending shortage of qualified college teachers and realized that all too few outstanding young men and women were contemplating the possibility of teaching careers. He believed that a year's exposure to academic life on the post-graduate level might induce some of these stand-outs to enter college teaching.

Oates started out with four Fellows, one of whom is now president of Princeton University. Rosenhaupt 15 years later is adhering to the same basic principles, particularly in the program's insistence that each candidate for a Wilson Fellowship must be nominated by an established scholar-teacher. This past year some 8,700 men and women, drawn from more than 850 colleges in this country and Canada were placed in nomination, with 1,259 winners and the graduate schools of their choice sharing $4,000,000 in awards.

While the German-born Rosenhaupt, a decorated American veteran of World War II and in charge of Columbia University's graduate admissions from 1948 until his appointment to his present post a decade later, is the first to point out that the Wilson Program can't hope to solve the teacher problem on its own, he has done as much as any American educator to "steam up" teenagers about teaching. Last month, for instance, he directed letters to nearly 37,000 college-bound students who won distinction through the National Merit Scholarships and the Westinghouse Science Talent Search. His purpose: to urge them to look far ahead—four years in fact—toward graduate study for careers as college professors.

The author of several major works, ranging from a fair war-experience novel, "The True Deceivers," to the highly significant "Graduate Students' Experience at Columbia University, 1940-1956." Rosenhaupt during the present academic year will be working with 1,100 Woodrow Wilson volunteers and a paid seven-member field staff. The mission will be to ensure that no prospect for an exploratory college teaching fellowship is overlooked in a competition which is dedicated to encouraging individual instructors and professors to keep a constant watch for the promising students whom this country so urgently needs.

For urging men and women of promise to "consider the rewards of a life devoted to teaching and scholarship in a world where the search for truth never ends;" for understanding that "quantity alone is never enough;" for extending to others "invitations to achievement;" he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee for

FOOTBALL, AND FALL AGAIN
 Both Are Welcome. This Thursday night at 9, fall will begin, to last exactly 88 days, 19 hours and 27 minutes. During its bright days of warm Indian Summer, into its crispier, golden afternoons and, possibly, while premature November snow falls as a signal of whiter weeks ahead, football will be played in virtually every corner of the nation's 50 States. Here in Princeton, long since left behind in the mad and unvariable pace toward complete over-emphasis of the sport, there is always a pleasant sense of nostalgia on the eve of another season. If other colleges battle today, even more strenuously than their players on the gridiron, for top schoolboy athletes; for bigger budgets for athletic scholarships; and then for bigger bowl games to replenish the depleted budgets, Princeton can look back pleasantly to having launched the sport in calm, unemphasized fashion.

Today, the traditional series with that first opponent is a fixture on the Palmer Stadium schedule. Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rutgers will be here for the first game in the series that was inaugurated in New Brunswick one chill November afternoon in far-off 1869.

While Princetonians can hardly be expected to look upon the turn of events with favor, it is only natural that the trend in the ancient rivalry has been reversed in recent years. Today, it is the RIVALRY RENEWED: The nation's oldest (81 years) football rivalry will open the 1960 Football season here Saturday. Above, Tiger tailback Hugh Scott.

Scarlet of New Brunswick which has dominated the games of the past two seasons and which is seeking to record an unprecedented third straight victory. Once before (1947-48) Rutgers won twice in a row, but never since it began the series in the post Civil War era has it managed three straight conquests of the opponent it likes most to defeat.

Outcome Rated a Toss-up. Because there are so many unknown quantities in each camp, the result of Saturday's game is unusually difficult to predict. Both teams have lost heavily through graduation, and because of an almost total absence of members of the junior class on the Princeton squad, the Orange and Black is extremely dependent on wholly inexperienced sophomores.

Despite the problems confronting each coach, there is a refreshing willingness on both sides of the field to express guarded optimism. Advance claims of outright victory are unrecorded in intercollegiate football annals, but neither man has been seen resorting to a crying towel.

In other years, the edge was dulled for many a Rutgers-Princeton game by the former Scarlet coach, Harvey Harman, who roared openly for publication that "those Princeton Tigers are too tough for my little team." Crowds stayed away in droves but often missed a real thriller such as the 34-28 contest in which a rampaging New Brunswick contingent very nearly ended Princeton's unbeaten string in 1950. In three of the last seven years, a mere two points has been the difference between victor and vanquished.

Fall is on the horizon and football is less than 48 hours behind. It is a pleasurable thought that some nine decades after Princeton helped introduce the sport, football is only less likely to deviate from its perennial arrival than fall itself.

POLITICS IN THE AIR, TOO
 As Headquarters Open. Fully as much a part of the autumnal season as any bit of Americana is the political game, currently being staged on a nationwide gridiron by Messrs. Kennedy and Election. In Princeton, the signal that Election Day will be here in a matter of weeks has brought the announcement of headquarters for the Republicans (at 59 Nassau Street) and the Democrats (at 104 Nassau).

In both camps, scores of volunteers will devote their efforts to the election of tickets ranging from the local to the presidential level. As a continuing part of the Princeton scene, TOWN TOPICS will publish next week the first of six articles in its annual "Why I Plan to Vote" series. In succession, they will deal with candidates for officers in the Borough, Township, U. S. Senate and the White House.

PERSONALITIES

Henry A. Schultz, 9 Lincoln Court, who on Friday will observe his 75th birthday, widely known throughout the community as "Princeton's blind Santa Claus," he still maneuvers busy sidewalks and street crossings with only an occasional helping hand, shows no lessening of the enthusiasm and energy that punctuate the hundreds of calls he receives from little people at Christmas time.

Marda L. Heck, 30 Westcott Road, and Samuel Frothingham, 9 Oiler Road, respective chairmen of the Borough and Township Planning Boards, who this week lent added impetus to the campaign for the 1960 By-Pass with a strongly-worded resolution urging the State Highway Department to "name the route and name the date" for construction of the long-sought thruway designed to bring traffic relief to Princeton proper. (Story, page 3.)

ROUNDUP

On the day of Princeton's home football games, parking will be prohibited on most streets within a quarter-mile of Palmer Stadium. Police Chief Raymond Mondone has announced... cars parked on Prospect or on Olden after 10:30 A.M. will be deemed a sufficient temporary hazard to be towed away... Chief Mondone also said that all parking meters remain in operation until 6 P.M. Saturdays and tickets will be issued for overtime violations regardless of attendance at football games.

If truckloads of debris hauled to the dump after the hurricane are an accurate measurement, more trees were felled by Donna in the Borough than in the Township. The Borough reports 140 loads of leaves, limbs and sawed up trees were carted off, while the Township has managed so far with 60.

Four days after the big storm—Friday about noon—a 4200-volt live wire broke from its pole near the Shelton Motor Co. on Witherspoon Street with the sound of a cannon-shot — It sparked and thrashed to the considerable concern of everyone in the area until a Public Service crew cut off the power at the pole... the accident occurred right after children from Valley Road School had gone home for lunch, and the area was completely blocked off until repairs had been finished.

Accident scenes in Township court are now illustrated through the use of a mock intersection and mechanized cars about five inches long... only once accident involving injuries in the Princeton area during the past week, a collision at the Kingston bridge Sunday at noon between a car operated by Thomas J. Navin, 26 Allwood Drive, Lawrenceville, and Giuseppe Di Meglio, 169 Witherspoon... Mr. Di Meglio, his wife and their 13-month old son were treated at Princeton Hospital for minor injuries, Mr. Navin was ticketed by Township police for reckless driving.

Ten Years Ago: TOWN TOPICS, Sept. 28, 1950: Fanning meters continued to arouse a storm of protest at Borough Hall hearing... one woman refused to pay a fine because she said she had put a nickel in even if it was the meter at the back of her car, not in front of it... another insisted that "You ought to pay when you come back to your car, not when you leave—how can you possibly tell how long you'll be away?"... and a beauty parlor operator said that the 30-minute limit in front of her establishment was far too short, asking, "After all, what can you do for a woman in 30 minutes?"

A revised master plan (the first since 1929) incorrectly estimated Princeton population by 1975 as 26,000—it's within ten percent of that figure in 1960—but accurately estimated the vital need for a bypass from the Somerville Road to US 1, thereby removing three-fourths of the through traffic on borough streets... in an era of unrestricted college football television, Princeton announced plans to bring six of its seven home games into the living room.

A heavy smoke haze from Canadian forest fires was so thick that it affected the sun's rays, giving Princeton and the eastern seaboard the coldest late September on record... the 1950 census having sent Mercer County's population past the 200,000 mark, mandating and installation was expected to follow shortly, following from this section of New Jersey throughout the summer, struck suddenly, sending five to the hospital and causing one fatality here.

In sports, Carlo Arcamone and Vince Ferrara were scheduled to meet for the championship of the Hopewell Valley Golf Club in a long-delayed playoff, Lightstown bested Princeton for the Twin-M Baseball League title... while at Princeton High School, Coach Joe Jorgoli announced this lineup for the opening game against Red Bank:

WHERE IS 206-A?

Two Boards Ask Action. A joint resolution passed by Borough and Township Planning Boards was acted on favorably and with dispatch Monday night by Township Committee. The resolution, also submitted to Borough Council, asks Township and Borough governing bodies to call formally on State Highway officials to find out exactly what the state plans to do about the Route 206 Bypass.

In their resolution, the two planning boards point out that the capacity of some Princeton streets is totally inadequate for the amount of vehicular traffic they have to bear, and that for safety and the welfare of Princeton residents, a solution must be found. The Township cannot make exact plans for streets and roads in the northeast until the state decides where the by-pass is going to be, and the two municipalities are handicapped in any kind of joint planning on traffic and land use without a definite commitment from the state.

Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman reminded Committee members that the two planning Boards met with state highway officials and with planning board members from surrounding communities in May, 1959, and that the state assured the municipalities that a decision on place and priority would be made in the fall of 1959. This date was later changed to May, 1960; then to June, 1960, and there has still been no definite word from highway engineers.

"It's going to take lots of action, and we should keep after them constantly," commented Committee member Stanley C. Smoyer.

A representative of the state highway department told TOWN TOPICS this week that the route of 206-A had still not been determined, that no priority for the road had been established relative to other state highway projects. The by-pass route "is still under study," he reported.

LOOK WHO'S HERE: Senator John Kennedy, Democratic presidential nominee, at "Marven" with Governor Robert Meyner, Senator Kennedy was greeted Thursday by a crowd of 150 persons who gathered on the "Marven" lawn. "I don't think he looks so young," commented an on-looker, age 8. Said another, age 18, "I think he's divine." (Staff Photo.)

"We Need Open Space." "The time has come for our Township government to undertake with vigor a project for the preservation of open space in our community."

With this statement, Committeeman Thomas P. Cook introduced a resolution asking the Township Planning Board to study certain areas in the community which might be left open as parks, fishing and hunting areas, wild life sanctuaries or simply as open spaces in a rapidly growing town.

"It is high time we faced the issue of how far we want development to go," Mr. Cook said, "and how much we want to preserve the beautiful countryside that is rapidly being suburbanized."

Mr. Cook said he thought that open space could be conserved by purchase for public use (parks, forest preserves, hunting areas, etc.) and by the acquisition of "conservation easements" under which land might remain in private ownership under restrictions prohibiting its development.

"I should think that people might well get income-tax deductions by giving parcels of land as 'conservation easements,'" Mr. Smoyer suggested. Mr. Cook replied that he had many indications that "public spirited citizens" would be interested in giving land. The resolution was passed unanimously.

Further Business Along These Lines. A letter was read from Carl Geiger of Princeton Country Estates offering two lots (numbers 491 and 492) in his development to the Township for recreation purposes. The lots are on the corner of Terhune and Bertram Drive.

Mayor Fairman expressed the pleasure of the Committee at Mr. Geiger's offer, and said it would be referred to the Board of Recreation Commissioners.

In action underscoring Mr. Cook's resolution, the Township Planning Board on Thursday night reviewed three sections of Princeton Country Estates, giving final approval of 13 lots in the vicinity of Dodds Lane, Terhune Road and Baker Court, and giving a final double-check to the preliminary plans of two other Princeton Country Estates sections, one so large that it will come before the Board for final approval in pieces of a dozen lots at a time.

In other action, Committee passed unanimously the ordinance accepting and providing for the paving of Autumn Hill Road and part of Cordova Road over the good-natured but firm objections of several residents who will probably be assessed for the difference between the $14,400 paid the Township by the bonding company for the defaulting developer, and the $2,500 which the paving will probably cost.

"The Township has got to pay the bill," said Weldon E. Young, Autumn Hill Road. "I've paid my taxes and gotten nothing for it." Mr. Young said he did not feel that residents of the area should have to pay for the road when they were told that the developer would build it.

Oliver Plantinga also reminded Township Committee that purchasers of Autumn Hill property were assured that the developer would build the road.

continuity of responsibility in an elected government. "Who is responsible for miscalculations made by a previous set of officials?" he asked. "Why should property owners bear the burden? It's a philosophical problem that should be met."

Township engineer James Breth told the Autumn Hill property owners that the Township itself is serving as sub-contractor for the paving to save money, that it does not plan to build curbs, and that the street will be narrowed from 30 feet to 20 feet. He estimated that about $2,000 would be saved in these ways.

Committee man John Mount told Dr. Albert that the Planning Board has been asked to require all developers to build roads, curbs and improvements before any building permits are issued to avoid situations such as those in Autumn Hill and White Pine, in which a defaulting developer left his purchasers holding the bag.

206 BY-PASS URGED

By Democratic Candidates. The Democratic candidates for Borough Council and Township Committee, Gordon Waldron, Robert van de Velde, Richard Frost, and Simon Moss, have urged united community support for the Route 206 By-Pass. In a joint statement, the four said they were requesting an appointment with Dwight R. Palmer, State Highway Commissioner, in order to discuss the problem.

In pointing out the regional nature of the by-pass, the candidates stressed that each of the communities involved would have to make some sacrifices in the interest of safety, economy and improved traffic flow. "Although the by-pass will not run through the heart of the Borough, its effect will be felt by the businessmen there, as well as the residents of the Borough, Township and surrounding towns," they said.

The candidates fear that, though many sound arguments have been presented to act now to improve the Harrison Street bridge, the action alone would bring more unwanted traffic to this thoroughfare. The By-Pass, they argue, should have the first priority to meet the related traffic problems of Washington Road, Baysard Lane, Nassau and Harrison Streets.

"This problem," the candidates concluded, "cannot be solved by any one municipality. All the communities concerned, whether the By-Pass affects them directly or indirectly, must work together with the State to achieve the best possible solution."

BOARD APPROVES PLANS

For Township School. The Township Board of Education, meeting in executive session Thursday night with representatives of Fulmer and Bowers, approved the preliminary plans presented by the architectural firm for the new Township school that will be built in Community Gardens across from Valley Road School. The resolution expressing this approval will now go to Township Committee so that final arrangements may be made with the Community Garden's trustees.

In open session, the Board set a public meeting for Thursday, September 29, at 8 p.m. in Valley Road School to discuss the population problems of the Township and their implications for the school system. This September, 1966 students are attending classes in Township schools. The figure when registration closed for the summer in June was 1560.

Richard Pearson, the new named chairman of the Board's New Buildings Committee, which will consist of Leonard Hymowitz and George Grace. Mr. Grace has also been named chairman of the new public relations committee which will work with Dr. William Purcell, superintendent of schools. Mrs. Robert Sokler will arrive as chairman of the Committee on Districts assisted by Mrs. Walton Van Winkle and Mrs. Jess Epstein.

CRAWFORD, JONES NAMED To Seminary Posts. Dr. James J. McCord, president of Princeton Theological Seminary, has announced two appointments to the administrative staff.

The Rev. David L. Crawford, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church for three years, will assume the post of secretary effective October 15. He will be responsible for alumni affairs and program development for the continuing education of seminary graduates. He was with the Seminary from 1962 to 1967 as teaching fellow ecumenics, and as assistant to the president in 1966 and 1967.

A graduate of the Horace Mann School in New York City, Amherst College and the Seminary, Mr. Crawford was pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Plainsboro from 1948 to 1956. He taught at the Lawrenceville School for a time, and during 1947 and 1948 taught Bible and world history at the Mount Hermon School.

News Of The THEATRES

COMPANY NAMED

APA Ready for McCarter
 Among the actors, directors and technical personnel who make up the registry of the Association of Producing Artists are performers with a wide range of experience in the theatre, television and other entertainment media.

The APA will serve as resident acting company at McCarter Theatre for the fall drama series, "Comedy in the Theatre," which will have a pre-season opening next Thursday with "Man and Superman" and on October 1 with "Anastol" in an original musical version. The season proper will begin October 6 with "The Lady's Not for Burning."

In the casts of the McCarter Theatre productions will be a husband-and-wife team. Ellis Rabb and Rosemary Harris. Miss Harris appeared most recently on Broadway opposite Charlton Heston in Laurence Olivier's production of "The Tumbler" and Mr. Rabb appeared in Noel Coward's "Look After Lulu." Mr. Rabb is a founder of APA and will direct some of this season's plays, including "Anastol."

Richard Easton, Stephen Porter and Allen Fletcher will direct, also. Mr. Fletcher and Mr. Porter will be responsible for "Man and Superman" and for the George M. Cohan burlesque, "The Tavern." Mr. Easton's Broadway credits include revival of "The Country Wife," with Julie Harris, and the New York version of the British musical, "Salad Days."

Sets for the coming season will be designed by Hugh Hardy, who has also been in charge of the structural renovation of the McCarter stage and the redecoration of the interior.

HE'LL COME HERE FIRST

songs and dances to McCarter Theatre before taking it to Broadway. Princeton audiences may see him in "Laughs and Other Events" on Monday, October 3, at 8:30, a week before the New York opening.

Mr. Holloway, known for his versatility, has entertained audiences for years as a monologist, singer, dancer, story-teller and actor. He is the creator of Sam Small—who is sure to turn up at McCarter—and of young Albert, whose adventures with the lion will be recalled by Holloway fans. In addition, of course, he created the character of Alfred Doolittle in "My Fair Lady."

Tony Charnoli has done the staging and choreography for "Laughs." A producer and sometimes a director as well, Mr. Charnoli has worked with many TV shows, including the Mautice Evans "Taming of the Shrew," "Alice in Wonderland" and the Dinah Shore show. He has also staged the night-club acts of such stars as Glisic McNamee, The Beachcomber, Lisa Kirk and Dinah Shore.

THE PLAYHOUSE

High Time (Sept. 21-27) presents Bing Crosby in the improbable role of a college freshman thrown in with even less probable companions, such as Tuesday Weld and Fabian. The attempt to meet the opening of the school year with some college hijinks is little more than burlesque.

It all starts when self-made millionaire Crosby decides he should get a college education. He could be like other older people and simply attend courses, but no, he has to do it all the way—living in a dormitory, pledging a fraternity and all. Fabian is one of Crosby's roommates and Miss Weld is just a friend of the group. (One assumes the two of them have been planted by the script writers to appeal to the present college-going or almost-college-going age group, which doesn't say much for that generation.) In the course of the film's 103-minutes, the Old Guard proves that he's still pretty agile, especially where French teacher Nicole Maurey is concerned; Fabian shows that his head of hair is about his only asset; and Tuesday Weld reveals how young she really is when compared to the more mature Miss Maurey.

This fanciful view of a college life was produced by Charles Brackett and directed by Blake Edwards. It is in CinemaScope and color.

Under Two Flags (September 26-October 1) is a taut naval drama, based on the World War II escapades of a German surface raider that sank more than 20 British and Allied vessels before being sent to the bottom herself. Van Heflin plays the sympathetic German captain, the liked to put all the passengers in lifeboats before disposing of ships with appropriate machinery. Others in the cast are Charles Laughton, Mylene Demongeot and John Ericson.

Laughton is the British admiral charged with the task of eliminating the raider, and he seems a bit confused as to whether he's really a British admiral or whether he's Charles Laughton and some nasty young man has asked him to pretend to be a British admiral. Ericson, the young Nazi-trained lieutenant on Heflin's ship, criticizes his captain's humanity and thinks things would go more efficiently if Heflin would torpedo the ships first, then worry about the passengers. Miss Demongeot is a blonde French girl who is attracted by Ericson's virility but who recoils at his coldness.

It's that kind of picture: A lot of familiar characters, competently acted and directed, dashing around warships and the high seas. Granted, an amiable German is a bit unusual in a World War II picture, but "The Young Lions" put this type in the "acceptable" file a couple of years ago. "Under Two Flags" has nothing very profound to say and as a result it's an exciting, if slight, production. Its suspense peak when Alex Nicol, a British Intelligence Officer who resembles a German naval officer, boldly enters Nazi headquarters and walks off with a vital code.

TIE GARDEN

The House of Usher (Sept. 18-24) is a good, old-fashioned suspense story, complete with the eerie old house, dark passageways and raving lunatics. This film version of Edgar Allan Poe's tale of suspense stars Vincent Price, Mark Damon, Myrna Fahey and Harry Ellerbe.

As any student of Poe's works knows, the story revolves around the attempts of the last of the Usher line (Price) to prevent his sister (Miss Fahey) from marrying Damon. It opens with Damon arriving, unannounced, at the family mansion to see his fiancée.

BRUBECK IN PRINCETON: The jazz pianist will play in Alexander Hall on Oct. 1 with his Quartet.

Suspicion is immediately created as he is met coldly by both the butler (Ellerbe) and Price. From there on out, the moviegoer is in the hands of the special effects technicians.

Unfortunately, the film version of "The Fall of the House of Usher" lacks the smooth-flowing, all-encompassing quality of Poe's prose. It is questionable if any picture can fully capture the power of his words, but it is certain that director and producer Roger Corman has failed to attain the goal in his reliance on elaborate sets and fancy effects.

The Would-Be Gentleman (September 26-October 1) is a fine film rendering of Moliere's "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme" by the Comedie Francaise. It's the first motion picture ever made by that excellent group, which is the top repertory company in one of the only nations on earth that has found it necessary to socialize laughter. The play is in color and English titles translate the French dialogue.

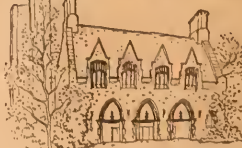

Louis Seigner is the properly foolish in the role of the gentleman himself, a newly rich individual addicted to the mannerisms of the upper class. His Henry Higgins—the elderly academician who is charged with teaching him to speak good like a gentleman—should be Georges Chamarat, an amusing man. Others in the cast are Jean Meyer, Jacques Charon, Bob de Manuel, Jean Piat, Michelle Bouquet and Marie Schouart. Meyer directed with obvious affection for Moliere's satirical intent. Recommended.

"SUNRISE AT CIRCUS"

Drama of FDR's life, "Sunrise at Campobello," Dore Schary's drama based on Franklin Delano Roosevelt's polio affliction, has begun a two-week engagement at the Lambertville Music Circus. It will run through Sunday, October 2, starring St. John Terrill, impresario of the Circus, in the role of FDR.

Shirley Conway will play Eleanor Roosevelt and Lee Duncan will portray Louis McHenry Howe in the drama, which is under the direction of Louis Macmillan.

IT'S NEW To Us

NEW GALLERY SHOWS ART

From Israel, Mexico, Morocco. Something fresh, new and, in many ways, completely different from anything Princeton has seen before is now in town on Charlton Street.

Rina Galleries, established at 11 Charlton in a small house which has been expertly redecorated to serve the Gallery's purposes, has for sale and exhibit a first-line collection of silver, copper, ceramics and paintings from Israel, the Yemas, North Africa and even from Mexico (we say "even" because none of the Mexican pieces follow the usual pattern of Mexican gift exports.)

From the workshops of the Yemante Jews, Rina has assembled a collection of folk jewelry wrought in silver with a gold wash and set occasionally with native stones like turquoise. Look at the craftsmanship in the necklace with its eight double tassels swinging three inches below a round silver bar. Or the delicately filigreed gold earrings spotted with coral.

For sophisticates, Rina has much of it reminiscent of Danish designs in its use of simplified forms and free forms, but quite original in its application of traditional Israeli patterns.

One artist has taken a whelk shell and fastened to it three small silver dangles, each one tipped with an amethyst. A wide silver necklace looks as though it were made of small silver safety pins linked together. Its pendants are flat silver boomerangs that swing free from the links. Besides the silver jewelry, there are mosaic pieces fashioned into oblong bar pins small free-form pins and so on, all adapted from the traditional manual work of an earlier day in Israel. Incidentally, the shop has none of the usual brass-and-turquoise Israeli objects. All of the pieces in the various collections are firmly contemporary, or adapted from folk forms.

The most impressive silver pieces are the big ones, especially a prize-winning modern Chachukha Neorah in sterling silver ($126), a pair of sterling candlesticks rising a slim 14 inches from a half-dome base and a figural set consisting of a cylindrical decanter and six small cups.

On a more modest scale, Rina offers copper cigarette boxes, inset with stones, copper book-ends with etched designs and innumerable trays in all sizes and prices.

Olive wood has been used for a chess set whose figures have been carved simply so that they are a smooth pleasure to the hand. Other olive wood pieces include minute carved animals (even a bison, oddly enough) and a magnificent marquetry box.

From North Africa, Rina has assembled a group of wool rugs woven by Jewish artisans in various parts of North Africa. They are scatter size, composed in stripes of traditional colors like jemon, charcoal, lilac-rose and so on. Others are done in shades of charcoal and oatmeal. There are also smaller woven pieces which can be used—and are so used at Rina—as wall hangings.

Gifts From The Past

Israeli archaeologists, working in the Negev and elsewhere, have uncovered some delightful little figures which have been copied by Israeli artists in faithful detail. They are now among the treasures that you can buy at Rina Galleries on Charlton Street.

One of the most appealing is a small horse about two inches high, with a stubby little mane and an elongated neck. Another is a slim female figure with a typical water jar balanced on her head. Both these ceramic figures are pale sand color.

Another archaeological find incorporated into a modern piece is the Lion of Judah, done in mosaic exactly as it was found on the floor of an old synagogue. At Rina, you'll find it embedded into a copper dish.

In ceramics, Rina presents a collection of bowls, some lightly glazed, others with the feel of earth in their rough sides. Colors are the gentle ones of natural clays. All the pottery is signed—most of it comes from an artists colony on the Mediterranean in Israel.

lings of Adler, most of them displayed across the hall in a tiny parlor astoundingly transformed by white paint and full white drapes into a presentable little art gallery.

Adler's collages combine torn pieces of paper and paint in a deft and subtle manner to produce figures that seem, in some works, to be almost armatures, (see "Fighting Men"). In the dramatic "Lazarus", the collage technique makes the figure seem to leap out of his winding sheets. Collage seems to follow Adler into his oils; he applies the paint in planes of color and shadow much as he does in his successive plane of paper when he is constructing a collage. He is also a skillful pen-and-ink artist, with a couple of absorbing figure studies and two spiny designs on rice paper to prove the point.

A HOUSE FOR HIM

Built of Walnut. In the Founders' "Patterns T" collection at Nassau Interiors there's a walnut sideboard 67 inches long (320) which would make the best house for him, equipment that we've seen in a long time: doors that fold over shelves or drawers, subdued oiled finish, styling that isn't at least "dining-roomy." Of course, you can use it in a dining-room too, for grumpy's sake and the stainless steel, but to us it cries out for components.

(In case the lady of the house wins the battle, there's a cane and walnut hutch designed to rest at one end of this sideboard or to hang above it on the wall.) Comes in fruitwood finish, too, if you're not a walnut family.

There are so many pieces in the Founders line that all we can do is suggest their nature and variety. Look at the 45-inch-high man's chest, for example (Pretty small man, isn't he?) It has four shelves behind a right-hand door, six shallow chair drawers and mere slots for hardware.

A breakfast arrangement shelves, shallow drawers and cupboard space in an off-center way so that open shelves are opposite closed doors, and an on. There are innumerable small tables, larger cocktail tables and bedroom chests. Some of the tables have one or two drawers, one is a solid cube, and one is a vanity that simply hangs between two chests.

Another new furniture group at Nassau Interiors is styled by those casual Danes in a teak finish. This line combines splenidid, the good taste of clean Scandinavian styling with the even better taste of economy. The dining table with one 32-inch leaf, for example, is $85.

There is a round dining-table, too, and for either round or oblong, you have a choice of ladder-back chair (ladder back with four shallow drawers and cane doors is $190, and a small server with cane doors is $78. Buy a hatch to put on top of this one if you want to.

REVERE, WITH LINING

Boys Now Have Glass Inserts. The Revere silver bowl, long a staple item in both modern and traditional households, appears this fall with a Pyrex glass lining which is removable, and fitted with a lip to anchor it securely to the rim of the bowl. These Pyrex bowl inserts may be used for baking the silver bowl or for supporting cut flower arrangements and for dozens of other things you'll think of yourself. Bowls and linings are in 6, 8 and 10 inch sizes at $11, $13.20 and $16.50.

Young girls who like to match the silvery giggle with the silver jangle of a charm bracelet may spend hours pouring over the 300 (well—more or less) sterling silver charms recently mined at The Cummins Shop. The shop says "Ask us for it, and we'll produce it." Went to challenge them?

We found a silver trumpet, roller skates, Christmas tree, grand piano and typewriter. Prices are $1.50 to $3, and there are assorted silver bracelets to provide home base.

Cummins this fall starts its new hand bags at $3.30. Clutch purses have been made out of something they call "marshmallow finish," which is nothing but a soft crushable plastic disguised with a prettier name. Lots of colors to choose from.

Real steerhide leather makes some other purses, colored just as bravely as the marshmallow. There's the reddish red we've seen in a leather dye, and that's good old avocado, too, besides black, brown and tan ($9.90).

A suede bag in graphite green, royal, black or brown would make a splendid fall bag and so would the rigid frame bag in cordovan leather with brass trim. It's a tailored but not so casual it makes you feel like a farm hand.

Jewelry for fall begins, so far as we're concerned, with some tiny gold bracelets, only two inches in diameter. They're cleverly made to twist open into an "S" which you can slip over your hand, then clasp shut again around your wrist. They cost $2.20 each, including tax. Green or purple faceted stones will make everybody think you're wearing—well, green or purple faceted stones. They come in two or three-strand necklaces, earrings and bracelets.

WORLD TURMOIL VIEWED

By Princeton President. Dr. Robert F. Cohen, president of Princeton University, noted this week that "all around the globe, Communist spokesmen are tirelessly working to convince millions that they can lead human-ty to a better way. The 46-year-old president was addressing the 328-man freshman class at Princeton in ceremonies which marked the official opening of the University's 214th academic year.

The spokesmen for communism, Dr. Cohen told his audience, "are sure that they know where they are going, and against what obstacles. And this, we in the democracies have too often forgotten, or just plain let slip."

"We ought to realize," he continued, "that the truly fatal adversary is less likely to be Russia than our own shortcomings—if we fail to be disatisfied with them; if we avoid all risk-taking; if we just can't be bothered to reach beyond the passion for material comfort and security and ative for things that are worthy of us, and can make us worthy." Dr. Goleen spoke for the spirit of self-criticism which will oppose the contagions of "indifference, glibness and excessive esteem."

"These contagions are already loose in all too great profusion in our country today," he asserted. "The nation's educational institutions, including Princeton, have their share." He urged the incoming freshmen to "consider the slowness of our progress for almost a century toward the elimination of racial inequality, and our downright failure in the past few decades to give education the support it needs at all levels."

Noting that "recent events in Cuba, not to mention the Congo, have cracked sufficiently wide open our too-long held national sense of complacency and superiority," Dr. Goleen asked the freshman class "to be disillusioned with the troubled state of the world, with any performance that is less than the best, and with the state of your own present accomplishments."

From among some 5,629 original candidates who initiated applications, 838 were selected to enter the University in the Class of 1964. Over a third of these freshmen are the sole representatives of their school, while a total of 464 different schools are represented, 131 independent and 333 public.

Scholarship standings of the Class of '64 in their secondary schools were: first quarter of the class, 701; second quarter, 86; third quarter, 26; and fourth quarter, three. Of the 626, 140 are engineering candidates and 668 arts and science candidates.

About 40 percent of the undergraduates will receive financial assistance from scholarships, loans, work opportunities or a combination provided by the Bureau of Student Aid. The total will exceed $1,500,000, a record figure. Scholarship awards are expected to reach $1,000,000 by the end of the year.

An increased interest in mathematics and the social sciences has been noted among the undergraduate body. Enrollment in mathematics classes has increased by 14 percent over last year.

"Labor Menapoly" Questioned,
By the Editor of Town Topics

Despite its splendid incentive, and because of its many vagaries, Mr. Jones' attack against mythical labor union monopolists (Letter, September 8) was neither entertaining nor enlightening. Who are the power-drunk labor monopolists he refers to; what acts constitute the pro-labor perversion of New Jersey's Senator? What does labor menapoly mean? Until Mr. Jones and other such critics empty specifics and reveal their value premises, their rantings are meaningless. Continued use of inventive, not a work stoppage over job security, is a sure "indication of moral decline."

A LIBERAL RELIGIOUS EDUCATION
FOR YOUR CHILD

The Ethical Culture Fellowship of Princeton is planning to open a Sunday School this Fall for children ages 5 through 14. The Fellowship hopes, through its new Sunday School, to provide for the children of the community a climate for self-discovery and acceptance, and to offer spiritual values through experiences that will help them grow toward: an awareness of the interconnectedness and wonder of life; a feeling of at-homeness in the universe; and an enhanced sensitivity to Man's worth, to ethical behavior, and to Man's potential for good.

The Director of Religious Education for the Fellowship is Dr. Lillian B. Tenney. Persons interested in further information regarding curriculum or enrollment may contact Dr. Tenney at WA 1-4838.

POLITICS IS SUBJECT

Of New Discussion Series. A series of weekly discussion sessions titled "An Action Course in Practical Politics" will begin Wednesday, October 5, at 8 p.m. in the Nassau Inn. The nine workshops are being sponsored by the Greater Princeton Chamber of Commerce.

Designed to stimulate active individual participation in politics by citizens, each session will be two hours in length. Orrin Jack Turner of Princeton has been named discussion leader for the series.

"These groups ideally accommodate 12 to 20 persons," said Lorr L. Quickle, chairman of the Education Programs Committee of the Chamber, "and I cannot urge too strongly the need for participants to register at once." Registrations may be made by contacting Miss Beatrice H. Miera, Executive Director of the Greater Princeton Chamber of Commerce, 2 Palmer Square East. A fee of $8 is being charged to cover the cost of books and pamphlets for the course of study.

CONSTRUCTION DELAYED

In Wilcox Hall. The construction of T. Ferdinand Wilcox Hall, the social and dining center intended to serve as a University-sponsored alternate to the existing club system, has been delayed for at least six months. Originally scheduled for completion in February, the building will not be ready for occupancy before next June, according to Dr. Robert F. Goheen, president of the University.

President Goheen said he was "disappointed" in the delay because many seniors, now members of Wadsworth Wilson Lodge, the alternate to the club system, had been promised that the new facility would be ready for use before they graduated. Dr. Goheen explained the delay: "During July a difference of professional opinion arose between engineers retained by the contractor and engineers retained by the architect.

"The disagreement centered upon features in the basic structural design of the building. When the two parties were unable to resolve their differences, they brought the matter to the attention of the University."

Acting on the advice of a consulting architect, Dr. Goheen explained, the University is having the building's structure examined by an impartial firm. He added that "the University does not expect to incur the expenses resulting from the retesty."

200 FAMILIES HELPED

By Community Homemaker Service. Some 200 families have been helped by members of the Community Homemaker Service staff during the 18 months that the agency has been in operation. Mrs. Lawrence Stratton, Homemaker Service director, reports that requests for service continue to increase.

Mrs. Stratton and the agency provide homemakers for light house work, child care, and getting meals for any family handicapped by illness. The client family pays for the service of a homemaker on an hourly basis.

Mrs. Stratton, who lives with her husband and two daughters in Cranbury, was a member of the general nursing staff at Wadsworth Hospital, New Brunswick, before becoming director of the Homemaker Service.

A graduate of New York Hospital School of Nursing, Mrs. Stratton taught maternity nursing at Hurley Hospital School of Nursing, Flint, Mich., before coming to New Brunswick. She attended Douglass College and Cornell University.

NEW MEMBERS RECEIVED

By Woman's Club of Princeton. One hundred and twenty-one new members were welcomed into the Woman's Club of Princeton at a tea held Friday in the home of a membership chairman—Mrs. Richard D. Challener. The President, Mrs. Norman D. Kelley, announced that the response to the newly-formed club was greater than had been anticipated.

The new members brought the total membership to 284 as the organization held its first general meeting Thursday at the Nassau Inn. Mrs. Harley L. Danglemond, President of the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs, was the guest speaker.

Mrs. Challener also stated that the next membership reception will be held in January and that interested women should contact her. A Community Service Committee, headed by Mrs. Lewis B. Headrick, will present its findings on projects to the membership within the next few months.

SCIENCE In Princeton

TIME: ELECTION NIGHT

Assignment: Predict Who Won.
It is 7 p.m. election night. Less than one per cent of the vote has been tabulated. Who will be the next president of the United States?

This is the question that a team of scientists at the Princeton-based Applied Data Research, Inc. will spend the next six weeks teaching Remington Rand's UNIVAC to answer. The computer's predictions will be transmitted to national radio and television audiences by the American Broadcasting Company.

Stephen Wright, who headed the Remington Rand election prediction team in 1954, 1956, and 1958, is in charge of the project for ADR, now in its second year in rapidly-expanding offices on State Road 206. Working under a contract with Remington Rand this year, he and his assistants will try to equal or better the 1956 record of accurately predicting the final outcome within 90 electoral votes by 7 p.m. election night.

The raw material with which UNIVAC must work is the wire service reports from individual states giving the number of precincts reporting, the total number of precincts, and the vote for each candidate, plus the results of past elections. From this it comes up with the electoral odds, on, for example, a Kennedy victory, the most probable division of the electoral vote and the limits in which the electoral vote will probably vary.

Months of Preparation. Between the inputs and UNIVAC's prediction stands months of work by Mr. Wright and his associates. Since the computer rarely makes an error, the accuracy of its prediction depends largely on what it is told to do.

Basically, this involves training UNIVAC to perform on a national scale the reasoning of the local politician who can look at a preliminary figure and, from his knowledge of the area, predict who is going to win. In comparison to the human's subjective reasoning, UNIVAC must do it all mathematically.

"Our approach to this is two-fold," Mr. Wright explained. "First, if some reports from a state are available, we ask, knowing the two-party vote at this time, what will be the distribution of the final vote. This extrapolation is based on the data on returns on election night collected by UNIVAC in past years."

"Second, if there are no reports, or virtually none, available from this state, we ask, knowing what the trend is in reporting states, and knowing how this state voted in the past, what will be the distribution of the final vote," Mr. Wright continued. This portion of the process requires records of the final vote for each state over a number of years. (This year, the team is going back to 1928 to include the last time the religious issue was present in a presidential race.)

UNIVAC to be Retrained. Although basically the same system was used in the past four elections, UNIVAC will have to be partially retrained this year. In the first place, some refinements have been added to the statistical model (such as allowing for upstate and metropolitan voting) and, secondly it must take into account for the first time the results of both the 1956 presidential race and the 1958 congressional elections.

"If we had enough time we would have liked to include other factors in the analysis," Mr. Wright noted. While some suggested items to be included such as the farm issue, labor and local issues, would be quite difficult, a factor such as incumbency would be relatively easy to include, he explained.

Is it worth it? Sometimes Mr. Wright wonders. In 1958, the team discovered that the prediction based on the state of Maine alone was almost as accurate as that based on the whole nation.

"It seems that the old saying 'As Maine goes, so goes the nation,' wasn't so far off," Mr. Wright remarked. Short cuts are hardly dependable, however, and next November 8, UNIVAC will again be asked to be the first to say authoritatively and accurately "who won."

Report from

THE MAYOR

Special Meeting: Mayor and Council will meet in special session at 8 p.m. on Monday in Borough Hall. It is expected that the Public Safety committee will report on a number of police items; and, if the large number of applicants can be screened by that date, there may be recommendations for two new patrolmen. The vacancies are caused by the retirement of Detective George Knowles and the resignation of Patrolman J. D. Hegadorn.

Traffic Items: Council will also introduce an ordinance to further amend traffic ordinances. Some of the changes involve placement of "stop" signs on Cedar Lane at the Prospect Street intersection, on Prospect Street at the Riverside intersection, and at other spots recommended by the Chief of Police and the Safety Committee. Some changes with respect to leading zones are anticipated, including one in the Nassau - Chestnut area.

Other Business: The special meeting may also see introduction of ordinance changes with respect to three or four license fees. This would be an extension of the Finance Committee's thorough review of all general revenues of the Borough to adjust them in line with costs, the changing value of the dollar, and the experience in other municipalities. The search for miscellaneous revenues reflects Council's continuing concern for finding ways to hold the line on the property tax burden of the Princeton homeowners.

First-hand View: Princeton was visited last week by travel directors and consultants representing A.A. clubs in a number of states. These men and women spend full time at the business of advising automobile club members who are interested in touring America.

In the post-hurricane days, Princeton was not at its best for these guests; but they were nevertheless impressed by the grandeur of the town and the warmth of her people. It was the Mayor's privilege to point out some of our history and our highlights which visitors would not want to miss.

In many ways, Princeton continues to be a showcase town. This Mayor never tires of welcoming groups who come for speeches or conferences. Their frequent questions about our town helps to put our past and present in better perspective and to make even more concerned about the care with which we must plan Princeton's future.

Staff Honors: Members of the Borough staff continue to win recognition among their professional colleagues. Borough Clerk Bob Mooney, already serving on the executive committee of the state association of municipal clerks, has now been sworn in as vice-president of the Mercer County unit of that important group.

Borough Engineer Art Brokaw seems certain of election as President of the Metropolitan Chapter of the American Public Works Association on September 30. The Mayor hopes to be on hand for the installation at Asbury Park.

"Tell It To The Mayor!" The regular weekly open house sessions will be held on Thursday, September 22, and Thursday, September 29, from 7 to 10 p.m. at Borough Hall. No appointment is ever necessary for these informal meetings.

Princeton people continue to show a warm interest in local affairs. This past week one resident made a tangible demonstration of her appreciation by contributing funds to pay for an additional bench at the Palmer Square station bench at the Palmer Square bus stop. For this evidence of thoughtfulness of others and pride in her town, we should salute Mrs. Mary Burdett of 31 Edwards Place.

IF YOU LIKE TOWN TOPICS, the best way to show your appreciation is to mention it to our advertisers.

CANDIDATE WILL SPEAK: Thern Lord of Province Line Road, Democratic candidate for United States Senate from New Jersey, will speak at a "Campaign Seminar" this Thursday at 6:30 p.m. at YM-YWCA.

The films, made available by the Princeton Film Library, are "Birds of the Seashore," dealing with the water birds of Canada's east coast; "Marine Highway," a camera tour of Nova Scotia's scenic ocean coastline; and "Waterways and Flyways of the North," a film on the fishing and hunting of waterfowl in the northern lake lands of Manitoba.

LOAD TO SPEAK

At Seminar on Sept. 22, Thern Lord of Province Line Road, the Democratic Candidate for U. S. Senate, will speak at a campaign seminar this Thursday. Mr. Lord will join other guests and the audience in a discussion of the issues of the current campaign.

Chairman of the seminar is Mrs. Harold Steln of 7 Greenholm Drive. "We conducted a vigorous discussion of the major topics of the campaign," she said. All Princeton residents are invited and there will be no admission charge. The seminar will be held at 8:30 p.m. at the YM-YWCA on Avalon Place.

The seminar is sponsored by the Women's Division of the Democratic State Committee. Patrons are Gov. and Mrs. Robert B. Meyner and Mayor and Mrs. Raymond F. Male. Other guests will include Mrs. Edna H. Kues of the Women's Division, and Stanley R. Kelley, Jr., Assistant Professor of Politics at Princeton University.

HOW TO READ AND WRITE

Adult School Offers Course, Caroline Gordon, critic, novelist and short-story writer, will give a course this fall in "Techniques of Fiction", under the sponsorship of the Princeton Adult School. Her classes will be held on Fridays from 8 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. in Miss Fine's School.

In the first part of the course, students will analyze masterpieces of fiction from Sophocles to Fitzgerald and in the second part of the course, students will read and write seriously on their own. In the spring, there will be a workshop in the techniques of the novel, open only to students who have done outstanding work in the fall. Those interested in joining this fall's limited group may confer with Miss Gordon at the Adult School "Open House" on September 22 from 8 to 10 p.m. at Princeton High School.

The offspring of a parent store in Cambridge, Mass., Audio Lab will retain its close ties with the Cambridge store, cooperating with it in many areas, such as rapid replenishment of stock, extra service facilities for unusual jobs, and engineering consultation. Although no attempt has been made to stock everything, in the field, the store will have a wide range of components. Manufacturers represented include H. H. Scott, Merantz, Sherwood, Garrard, Thorens, Dynakit, Harmon Kardon, Rek-O-Kut, ESI, Grado, Shure, KLM, AR and Wharfedale. HEIGHT NAMED DEALER

For Gates Tires, Height, Inc., of 177 Mercer Street, Hightstown, has been appointed distributor of Gates Tires for this area. (See advertisement, pages 24 and 25.)

Gates, the sixth largest rubber company in the country, maintains its headquarters and factory in Denver, and is particularly well known in the west and midwest. The company has recently decided to expand into the east, and is now building a warehouse in New Brunswick from which Height, Inc. will draw its inventory.

Height, Inc. was founded in 1937 in New Brunswick by direct descendants of the family that founded Hightstown. The company has been handling Texaco products since 1937 and Goodyear tires for the past ten years.

The original Height enterprise in New Brunswick was enlarged in 1909 by the addition of a branch in Hightstown. Both provide identical services, including fleets which go out on highway or turnpike to repair truck tires, to farms to repair and service farm tires (including the installation of calcium chloride in the tires for weight) and to factories to change industrial tires by using a portable 100-lb. pressure press.

The company also has at Hightstown a retreat shop whose automatic equipment can handle passenger tires in regular or snow treads, and truck tires. Used tires are also available. Height, Inc. also has a complete line of Delco and Willard batteries, AC Spark Plugs and oil filters.

SPORTS In Princeton

FOOTBALL, OPENER SET

Rutgers heels third in row. In 90 years of Princeton football, less than half a dozen teams have scored three consecutive victories over the Orange and Black. Saturday afternoon at 2 in Palmer Stadium, Rutgers will attempt to join the select circle by adding a triumph to those it scored here in 1954 (29-0) and 1959 (4-6).

The Scarlet comes in with a new coach—John Bateman, who was on Steve Sobo's staff at Pennsylvania. When John Shugman left Rutgers to replace Sobo, Bateman was promptly named to fill the vacancy at New Brunswick.

It will be extremely interesting to see how quickly Rutgers has learned the entirely new attack Bateman is installing. A firm believer in single wing football because of his days at Princeton under the late Charlie Caldwell, Shugman converted the Scarlet to that form of attack when he left here for New Brunswick.

Bateman, on the other hand, is a T man, and for the past three weeks he and his staff have had the Rowan eleven operating out of a double wing T behind an unbalanced line. In a nutshell, if Rutgers can assimilate an entirely new offense well enough and fast enough to win its opening game—particularly over the team it wants most to defeat—it will be a very large feather in Bateman's cap. On the other side of the field, if a rebuilding Princeton eleven cannot contain an offense as new as this, fear that the Tigers are in for a rough season will be well grounded.

Rutgers Has Topped Penn. From Haverly, Pa., where Pennsylvania conducts its pre-season drills, came news last week that Rutgers is learning fast. In a controlled scrimmage, John Bateman's new outfit bested John Shugman's Quakers, four touchdowns to two. It was a heart-warming day for the Scarlet as it completed better than 50 percent of its passes and rolled for a total offense of 354 yards.

Princeton, meanwhile, scrimmaged Lehigh (which had the benefit of aging practice) and showed a good degree of defensive ability as it blanked the Engineers while showing over a lone 71. The Tigers were minus some of their key players on the occasion, while Lehigh was distinctly short of backfield strength.

Tiger Reserves Inexperienced. Despite the loss of numerous key players in last year's senior class, Princeton figures to field a first team of satisfactory ability. Lettermen are ready everywhere save at right end and quarterback, but considerably more inexperience may become visible as reserve players move into action.

PRINCETON over Rutgers. Real trouble if not Columbia over Brown. Later looks for cellar.

Yale over Connecticut. Elis have good first team. Penn over Lafayette. Quakers on line play.

At ends, senior letterman Jim Blair will pair with Hank Large, a 6-1, 198-lb. junior who was listed as a fullback in 1959 but was consistently sidelined by injuries. The tackles will be 198-lb. John Craig and 203-lb. Stan Baldwin, the latter a converted guard.

Stan Shaugnessy (192) and Matt Tobriner (202) are the pick at guards; both are seniors, both—Continued on Page 30

51 PALMER SQUARE

COUNTDOWN FOR TIGER ELEVEN: "Five!" says Stanley Pazdan (right), "three, maybe four," echoes Crosby Kurkjian, as both men indicate the number of games they think the Princeton University football team will win this season. If the prophecies of other Monday-morning quarterbacks, ring true (see below), Tiger claws will be sheathed this year. (Staff Photo.)

Question of the Week

Question: How many games do you think the Princeton University football team will win this season?

Where asked: Palmer Square.

Crosby Kurkjian, 16, Vandewater Avenue, mail clerk: About three, maybe four at the most. They'll probably beat Rutgers, Columbia and Colgate. But, I can't see them being shut-out altogether in the Ivy League so I pick them to beat Brown, because they are reported to be about the weakest team in the League this year.

Stanley Pazdan, 73 Leavitt Lane, mail clerk: I'll say they win five. According to most of the sports magazines, they have been picked to finish no higher than fourth in the Ivy League. I feel they have lost too many of their key players to have a successful season.

Paul Hauben, 402-B Devereux Avenue, graduate student in history: Not more than three games. From the articles I've read in the papers, they're a pretty green team. Unless the sophomores come through in a big way—and it's usually just dumb luck if they do—Princeton won't finish very high up. Of course, they said this about the basketball team last year, and they wound up taking the title.

Mrs. Harry W. Berger, Mountaintop, housewife: Usually after a poor season, Princeton bounces right back so I feel they should win at least six games this year and restore the high standard of football played here. I hope I'm right; Princeton has always been my favorite team.

Carl Belz, 409 Butler Street, graduate student in art history: I think they'll win as many as they want to win. They've lost quite a few of their players from last year, and on paper, it doesn't appear as though they will do well. But paperwork doesn't really matter when you get down to business, especially in this league. It's more or less up to the boys how well they'll do.

Mrs. Richard Colman, 2 Campbell Circle, wife of the coach of Princeton University's football team: Jeppers, what a question to ask me!

Joseph Segura, 1803 Hall, University senior: No more than three. They'll probably beat Colgate, Columbia, and pull one out of the fire somewhere else. Last year we should have had a helluva lot better record than we did. I don't know whether it was poor coaching, lack of team spirit, bad luck or what. If we didn't have it last year, we certainly aren't going to have it this year. I feel we definitely have a weaker team.

Doug Kerr, 1803 Hall, University senior: Four, because I'm just generally more of an optimist than Joe.

Sherman Hawkins, 1938 Hall, instructor of English at the University: All of them. This is an active fall.

Royal Archer, 25 Wilton Street, draftsman: I don't think they'll win any more than they won last year which was the first Long Trail Ahead?

A football team which goes through a nine-game schedule and falls to top the 500 mark finds the season can be a long one, indeed. That's the fate predicted for the 1960 Princeton eleven by a majority of those questioned by Town Topics' Inquiring Reporter.

Last fall, those interviewed on the eve of a new season were overly optimistic; predictions ranged from 6 out of 9 to an unbeaten season, with no one predicting the eventual 4-5 record. Possibly this year the pessimists will be no mistaken as the optimists were 12 months ago.

Incidentally, the long arm of coincidence made its presence felt during the interview—two of those approached were the wife of Coach Dick Colman and the roommate of Captain Don Korman. The latter said, "no, thanks for harmony's sake," while Mrs. Colman's amused reply appears at the left.

losing season Princeton had since I can remember. The freshman team, from what I've heard, wasn't too promising so they haven't got anything coming up to help out the varsity. Consequently, I can't see how the team will have improved any this year.

Ralph L. Lushart, Hopewell-Pennington Road, president of advertising agency: This would be a pure guess, but I'd say they'll win six, tie Yale and lose to Harvard and Penn. Unquestionably, the big game this year will be Harvard.

Nick Rosso, 212 John Street, custodian for the Post Office: I'd say about two. I don't think they have a good team this year. That's what I read, anyway.

Jim Balasoun, Pyne Hall, University freshman: I'll pick them to win five and lose four with the hope that they'll do better. They'll probably lose to Harvard, Yale, Pennsylvania and Cornell. The competition is going to be very rough this year.

Miss Jane Dielhou, 126 Wilson Road, student at school in Natick, Mass.: Even though most of the team is new, I know that Mr. Colman has been working very hard with them and that his hopes are up. All I know is that they had better win more than they did last year!

Thomas Spencer, Highway 27, maintenance man: I've got of nine. Rutgers is going to beat them in the opener, and I'll say they also get beaten by Harvard, —Continued on Page 31 termen. Jerry Sullivan (196) will see heavy duty at center.

New Field General. A 202-lb. sophomore, big, burly and brand new, will operate as quarterback, providing much of the blocking essential to put the single wing in motion and calling the signals. He is 18-year old John Henrich, on whose development this season a good portion of the team's success will depend.

Flanking the newcomer will be three seniors. An oddity is that Captain Don Kornrumpf will be starting his first game Saturday; he saw considerable action as an understudy to Mike Ippolito last fall and Fred Tiley in 1959, but will be in at the kickoff this week-end for the first time.

Mike Iseman, plagued by injuries during the past two seasons, will be at wingback, while the triple-threat, 400, tailback, goes to Hugh Scott. It was Scotty who came quickly to the fore two years ago when both Dan Sachs and Jack Sullivan were injured in the Penn game and got off the bench to play a major part in the 20-14 triumph at Franklin Field.

The Tigers' reserve backfield will consist of a promising sophomore, Dan Terpach, who has come along fast to displace three varsity lettermen at wingback; Phil Carlin, a 206-lb. junior largely sidelined by injuries last year, at quarterback; Brewster Lund, a senior who will also do most of the placekicking, at fullback; and

Jack Sullivan at tailback. If he stays healthy, the latter will be a major asset this year.

Scarlet Line Big. A veteran line that will outgrow Princeton's by a good eight pounds per man is available to the Scarlet. Key players are Jud Pahl, a 225-lb. tackle, and 224-lb. Alex Kroll, who transferred from Yale after a year's suspension at New Haven for disciplinary reasons. Kroll is the Scarlet center, and a good one.

Bill Speranza will start at quarterback for the visitors, with Dick Webb and Arnie Byrd the halfbacks and Bill Tully the fullback. This ball-carrying quartet is smaller than average, varying from 170 to 185, banking on speed and quick-openers for its success. Reserve quarterback Sam Mudie rates as a distinct passing threat.

Things to Watch For. With a squad less experienced than any it has had in four years and a virtual absence of juniors of marked ability, Princeton will start the 1960 season with many questions unanswered. The coaching change at Rutgers likewise stamps the Scarlet as very much of an unknown quantity.

As the game unfolds, these possible developments will define the shape of things to come:

- The culture of Princeton's defense. If an entirely new attack at Rutgers, installed only this month, can dominate the Tigers, a number of the upcoming Ivy opponents will also be too tough to handle.

- Princeton's passing. Not since 1927 has either the running pass or the deep pass supplemented the ground attack in sufficiently accurate fashion to make the Tigers truly dangerous.

- Henrich's blocking ability. If he shows promise in this vital department, it will eventually be translated to the scoreboard in visible fashion.

- John Craig and Stan Baldwin at tackle. If these promising veterans have a good year, the line play so vital to success will have a chance of matching the high calibre most of the Tigers' opponents will field this season.

PHS TO MEET PEDDIE

In Opener Saturday. Like the first astronaut to be, Princeton High football coach Joe Jinguil will be facing the unknown Saturday afternoon when the Little Tigers meet the Peddie School at Hightstown in the opening game of the season for each eleven. It's been a number of years since these two schools have met on the gridiron and Jinguil admits that "we don't know a thing about them."

In preparation for the curtain-raiser against Peddie, some 60 Little Tigers traveled to Flemington Saturday for a scrimmage (their third this season) against Hunterdon Central. Reporting on the results, Jinguil said that the team looked better than it had in a similar scrimmage against Stouert three days earlier. "Our blocking was crisper, our running game looked good and the passing showed improvement," the Blue and White coach added.

Shaw Gould, Class, at 170, rounds out a backfield averaging 176, but, as Coach Jingoh points out, "It won't mean a thing unless the guys on the line can open up some holes."

Light Line Inexperienced. The burden of opening up these holes falls to a line that is lighter and less experienced than last year's. Positions still in question mark are right end, precipitated by a leg injury to letterman Joe Beaschell; left tackle and center. In fact, only three line positions seem to be stable: Lamont Fletcher at left end, co-captain Dave Smith at left guard and Harvey Clark at right tackle.

Fighting it out for right end are Art Ridler, Gary Mount and Jim Norris. At center, it has narrowed to a battle between seniors John Dalla Pezze and Russ Eldridge, with the added possibility of Tommy Velle, a junior, taking it away from both of them. Miles Truesdale and Norm Gaskins are engaged in a private feud for the left tackle slot.

Following the scrimmage with Hunterdon Saturday, Jingoh commented that his squad is "far from a finished club. We have a lot of work ahead of us, especially in our punting, points after touchdowns, running back kickoffs, and passing. In spite of some rough spots, though, there has been some improvement."

The tentative lineup:

L.E. Lamont Fletcher
L.T. Norm Gaskins
L.G. Dave Smith
C. John Dalla Pezze
R.G. Bill Wilson
R.T. Harvey Clark
R.E. Art Ridler
Q.B. Tom Olsen

BOWLING NOTES

Princeton Leagues Fall—Way, Most Princeton bowling leagues are under way for a new season and here is a roundup of the top bowlers of the sandhills. In the men's Women's Industrial League, five of the teams posted opening scores. The leaders, all with eight points apiece, were C.E. Electric, N. H. Service, E. C. Delmar, E. H. Mayor, L. S. and the H. S. S.

Top teams were out in front of the Women's League, also with 10 points each. In addition are the Betty Wright Shop, Cranbury Bank, Hit and Misses and Nassau Bootery. Shelton Motors and the Farmers topped the "A" loop after two weeks of play, each with ten points. Belle Mead and Rocky Hill, both with five wins, had posted the early lead in the Tri-County Fireman's League.

Top games for the week included a 223 by Gih Ireland in the Fireman's loop. He was followed by Harry Kahay, 210, and Elmer Wilson, 204, also in the "A" loop. Rudy Ehardt led the "B" bowlers with 210, followed by Bill Bahner, 205, and Charles Perpetua, 202.

Diana Fugitt posted a 205 in the Women's League while Ruth Martin rolled 201 and Dot Wheeler shot 183. In the Women's Industrial loop, Janice Caffelli had 182-181 and Marilyn Lowe bowled 181.

Football Rules Changes for 1960

The state of flux into which the Rules Committee tossed intercollegiate football seven years ago, when unlimited substitutions and a resultant two-platoon football were outlawed, continues to puzzle the unwary spectator. For 1960, two more changes are in effect.

The most important is the so-called "wild card" substitution rule, which permits a coach to send in one player after each play. The clock may still be running, and the existing complex rule on re-entry is not affected.

Greater use of specialists will be possible during the upcoming season under the new legislation. It will also enable coaches to strengthen their defense immediately on losing possession by substituting a key linebacker or safety man for one player used primarily on offense.

Obviously, too, ability to shuffle players in and out will give coaches the opportunity to call as many plays as they wish. With this in mind, the Rules Committee's other change for 1960 lightens the restrictions on sideline coaching, an illegal procedure that in the past has rarely brought a penalty now more flagrant. It was carried on.

Yale and Penn. I'm basing this on Princeton's performance last season. I figure that it will take at least two more years for them to build up to a top team again. The reason I'm for Rutgers is I have to be—my son is a student there.

Joseph Larkin, 54 Harrison Street, maintenance man for the University. About four. They're not as good as they used to be. They don't have any experienced players coming up to take the place of those who have graduated.

Harry Wyckoff, Concord Avenue, Trenton, salesman for Harry Bailor Co. I'll say five games. I know quite a few of the boys on the team and they have a better spirit than the squad did last year. I believe they'll surprise quite a few people.

James S. Hawley, 29 Bank Street, campus mailman for the University. Four. They'll lose to Rutgers, Penn, Cornell, Harvard and Yale. They've got material, all right, but it's not experienced. They're weak at fullback, too.

TUITION INCREASED AGAIN
University Announces Rise. For the third time in four years, Princeton University has announced an increase in its tuition and other fixed charges. The $150 hike, which will be effective in the 1961-62 school year, will bring the total undergraduate fees to a record $1600.

Coming after a $200 increase in 1957-58 and a $250 increase in 1959-60, the latest rise makes Princeton's tuition and fees the highest in the Ivy League, according to W. Bradford Craig, director of the Bureau of Student Aid. He estimated that the total cost of a Princeton education will reach $3000 a year in 1961, including food, lodging and other expenses.

In announcing the increase, President Robert F. Cohen emphasized that "Princeton is taking this step with great reluctance."

Those Good Old Days

It may seem impossible now, when even the University admits to a cost of $3000 a year beginning next September, but a century and a half ago, a year at Princeton cost less than $100. This was the budget of Philip B. Fendall Jr. for the school year beginning in September, 1813.

Mr. Fendall, in a letter to his mother dated November, 1813, assured his family that "you may depend on the utmost frugality on my part and at the end of the year my expenses will not exceed $100." His expenses included $5 a week for food, $1 for room rent and incidentals such as 62½ cents for "quills, paper and wafers" for the first term. But even then, the students were complaining about Princeton prices. "Nothing is cheap here," Fendall wrote, "and you cannot get the least thing done without paying for it!"

Innate but with the realization that it must ask its students and their parents to share a portion of the increase in educational cost, particularly as they related to improved faculty salaries. He said that the University will expand its aid program to prevent withdrawals for financial reasons and to permit qualified candidates to attend the university, "regardless of their financial situation."

The $150 increase includes an added $100 for the comprehensive fee covering tuition and the use of the library and laboratories and $50 for an annual medical fee. An additional $100 will be charged for room and board. Dr. Cohen stressed that even with the increased charges, the student will only be paying about half the cost of his education, with the remainder made up by endowment and special gifts.

News Of The CHURCHES

KNOW YOUR PASTOR

Meet Dr. Meisel. When a new minister comes to a church, he and his family accept inevitably and philosophically the "what's he like?" atmosphere unconsciously created by the congregation. In the case of Dr. Donald Meisel, new pastor at the First Presbyterian Church, this sense of being on display is heightened by the fact that the minister is now preaching each Sunday to the professors who taught him in Seminary.

Dr. Meisel, a native of St. Paul, Minnesota, was graduated from Princeton Theological Seminary in 1947 after his graduation from Macalester College in St. Paul. He was familiar with the Princeton scene before his Seminary years, however, because he had participated in the Navy's V-12 pre-college program in the final years of the war.

"I used to attend First Presbyterian when I was a student," he recalls, "and Dr. Frank Niles preached the installation sermon for me at my first church. The late Dr. Niles was minister of the minister of the First Presbyterian Church for many years."

Following his graduation from Seminary, Dr. Meisel spent two years studying theology at the University of Edinburgh, where he began his doctoral thesis.

"I finished up that thesis in Rahway, where I had my first church, and I had to marry my secretary in order to get it done." Dr. Meisel married the former Eleanor Williams in 1953. They now have three children.

After five years in Rahway, Dr. Meisel accepted a call to the Wyoming Avenue Presbyterian Church in Milburn and he remained there until accepting the First Church call last spring. Incidentally, Dr. Meisel's first church blew down in the 1960 hurricane and his second church burned. "They knew these things when they called me here," he says with a smile.

"Meaningful Worship." "If you want to do something in a new church, do it right away, while the honeymoon's still on," Dr. Meisel says, outlining his plans and hopes for his new pastorate.

"I believe that everything else we do stems from the act of worship on Sunday morning," Dr. Meisel says, "and I am concentrating on making that act as meaningful as possible, working with the Session, the worship committee and the organist, and restructuring the order of worship. I want to increase the congregational participation."

PASTOR AND CONGREGATION. Dr. and Mrs. Donald Meisel and their children in the garden of the First Presbyterian Church manse. Young Wayne, 20 months, is on his mother's lap. Nancy, 4, and Donald, 6, are mounted and ready to ride away. The Meisels plan four "Open House" receptions at the Manse in October so that the 1400 members of the first church congregation, gathered in small groups, will have a chance to become acquainted with the new pastor.

gation's responsibility for the service and, thereby, their interest in it."

Dr. Meisel sees the order of service in terms of "proclamation and response": the call to worship and the hymn of praise; the prayer of adoration and the prayer of confession; forgiveness and an anthem of praise to God for the assurance of forgiveness; the sermon, as the exposition of the word of God, and the hymn of dedication.

"I want everyone who comes to our church to have a sense of warm welcome. I want us to convey to everyone the community of religious feeling that prevails within the church."

The new minister is a quiet man with the deep and resonant voice one often associates with ministers. He finds, as so many pastors do, that his duties leave little time for outside activities, but he does find time to enjoy family picnics in the yard of the new manse on Westcott Road, and he looks forward to planning, with Mrs. Meisel, the eight-week tour of the midwest that they will make next year. The trip was presented to Dr. Meisel by a member of the congregation of his Milburn church, and his new Princeton church has agreed to give him a leave in order to take advantage of the gift.

"The last thing I ever expected in life was to return to the First church in any capacity," Dr. Meisel says. "It is both a humbling and a challenging experience."

TO RETIRE MORTGAGE. Methodists Hope. All other activities at the Princeton Methodist Church will be subordinated to a Mortgage Retirement Crusade which will be held between September 29 and October 10.

Church Improvements, including renovation of the Sanctuary, have cost approximately $101,450 and so far, the church has received $106,565 in pledges since the improvement program was begun three years ago. Payments on pledges are expected to reach $33,000 by the end of September, according to H. F. Calcutt, finance chairman of the church.

B. Woodhull Davis has been named chairman of a special executive committee which has retained the professional services of the Rev. Leon L. Blackman of the department of finance and field service of the Methodist church. The Rev. Mr. Blackman will assist with the fund-raising program.

Other members of the new committee are Arthur Benson, Leslie Burns, Mr. Calcutt, Frank Hancock, Miss Shirley Johnson, Eugene O. Keizer, Willis Lebourveau, Paul Moore, Mrs. Irving Ness, Donald Rugg, Edgar Vozzand, Harold Warner, Raymond Welshon and J. Guy Woodward.
